

Dear Parents:

Thank you for considering joining our program to experience exciting enrichment activities. Each year, from September to the end of May, we plan activities focused on learning scientific ideas and concepts; developing skills in math, science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM); building self esteem and confidence, creating a science project for presentation; providing the opportunity to meet new friends and more importantly, providing a learning environment for family participation.

A. Classes include: math, science project development and labs. Classes are small and are usually held on the MIT campus. The TTT Mentor Program's mentors may be either a STEM student studying at a university e.g. MIT/Harvard or a STEM career professional. The program is a volunteered run organization and is supported in part by Cambridge community organizations/businesses and friends.
