

Dear Parents:

Thank you for considering joining our program to experience exciting enrichment activities. Each year, from September to the end of May, we plan activities focused on learning scientific ideas and concepts, developing skills in math, science, technology, and/or engineering, building self esteem, project presentations, providing the opportunity to meet new friends and more importantly, providing a learning environment for family participation.

A. Activities include: math and computer classes, a science project, and science labs, and various fun events. Most classes are small and are held on the MIT campus or other location in the Cambridge/Boston communities. Volunteering instructors and mentors include students from MIT/Harvard, the professional sector, and volunteers from the Cambridge and greater Boston communities. The TTT Program is sponsored in part by the CoLab: Community Innovators Lab@MIT (DUSP), the Southend Technology Center@Tent City, CCTV, MIT Community Service Fund and other community organizations and businesses.
